The first county jail of Cook County was located on Hubbard Street in Chicago in 1835; arrestees being detained for less serious crimes were held at another location called the Bridewell on Polk and Wells in Chicago. In 1871, the Bridewell relocated to 26th and California and became the Chicago House of Corrections in August of 1871, originally housing 130 men, women and children. Due to overcrowding, the original county jail on Hubbard Street expanded on land adjacent to the Chicago House of Corrections to accommodate more detainees opening in 1929. In 1969, the Cook County Department of Corrections was formed combining the County Jail and the Chicago House of Corrections.

Present day, Cook County Jail (CCJ) spans more than ten city blocks and is comprised of over ten housing structures (divisions) including a health care unit that is staffed by employees of Cook County. Use of the facility can be adjusted to accommodate a myriad of population needs of all security levels for adult detainees only.

On the days of monitoring, Divisions 2,5,6,8 (Cermak), 8-Residential Treatment Unit (RTU), 9, 11 and 16 were in operation. Division 2 constructed in 1955, houses detainees with minimum and medium security classifications. The maximum capacity of this division is 1960, comprised of four three story letter "H" shaped buildings in a dormitory setting. The dorms were clean, orderly and visually free of vermin. The bathrooms were reasonably free of mold, mildew and soap scum. The showers and toilets were all operational. No graffiti was observed. Notice of rights posters were not prominently or conspicuously displayed within the housing units toured during the compliance monitoring. Detainees complained that they had no foot stools to climb onto the top bunk.

Division 5, constructed in 1975, houses detainees with a minimum/medium security classification. This building includes administrative offices and a dining room for staff and the records department. It has a capacity of 992, across 24 tiers with 496 double rooms. Common areas were clean, orderly and visually free of vermin. Notice of rights posters were not prominently or conspicuously displayed within the housing units toured during the compliance monitoring. The bathrooms were reasonably free of mold, mildew and soap scum. The showers and toilets were all operational. Minimal graffiti was observed in this housing unit however detention rooms were not tidy in that property of detainees was not organized and multiple detainees were observed with makeshift curtains and window coverings obstructing view into detention rooms.

Division 6, constructed in 1976, houses detainees of all security classifications. The maximum capacity is 992 across 24 tiers with 496 double detention rooms. This building includes housing for some protective custody detainees, drug treatment programs (SMART) and education programs. Common areas were clean, orderly and visually free of vermin. Notice of rights posters were prominently or conspicuously displayed within some of the housing units toured during the compliance monitoring. Bathrooms in this housing unit were reasonably free of mold, mildew and soap scum. The showers and toilets were all operational. No graffiti was observed in this housing unit which was recently painted. Detention rooms were, however, disorderly in that property of detainees was not organized.

Cermak Health Services (Division 8) constructed in 1999, is the health care unit of CCJ constructed specifically for health care services in a correctional setting that includes its own emergency room.

Cermak's team of over 630 employees who are employees of Cook County offer health care including emergency medical care and mental health care 24 hours daily. Cermak provides dental care, physical therapy and respiratory therapy from 800 to 1600 hours on weekdays along with vision care 4 days each week. Each division at CCJ has a satellite nursing office in addition to the on-site hospital, thus medical staff is always available and in close proximity to detainees in need of assistance. CCJ is accredited by the National Commission on Correctional Health Care (NCCHC) through March of 2026 for its compliance with NCCHS standards for health services in jails. Cermak can accommodate 152 male and female detainees of all security classifications. Cermak has ten tiers, sixty-one single detention rooms and 22 group rooms. The common areas and detention units were clean, orderly and visually free of vermin. Detention rooms in this housing unit were orderly. Notice of rights posters were prominently or conspicuously displayed within the housing units toured during the compliance monitoring. Minimal graffiti was observed in this housing unit.

Division 8 RTU constructed in 2013, houses male and female detainees with medical and psychiatric medical needs of all security classifications. Division 8RTU can accommodate up to 977 detainees across five levels which are comprised of 29 tiers with 80 double detention rooms. Common areas were reasonably clean, orderly and visually free of vermin. Notice of rights posters were prominently or conspicuously displayed within the housing units toured during the compliance monitoring. Bathrooms in this housing unit were reasonably free of mold, mildew and soap scum. The showers and most toilets were operational, those inoperable were scheduled for service. Minimal graffiti was observed in this housing unit during the compliance monitoring. Some detainee areas were disorganized (5C dorm).

Division 9 constructed in 1992, houses male detainees with a maximum-security classification. The maximum capacity is 1066 across 25 tiers with 528 double-detention rooms and ten single detention rooms. This structure includes four tiers for detainees that exhibit disciplinary issues while in custody along with some protective custody tiers. This division also houses the radio control center for CCJ. Common areas in this housing unit were clean, orderly and visually free of vermin. Notice of rights posters were not prominently or conspicuously displayed within the housing units toured during the compliance monitoring. Bathrooms in this housing unit were reasonably free of mold, mildew and soap scum. The showers and toilets were all operational. Plastic curtains installed at the entrance of the common washrooms are still serving their purpose of reducing incidents of flashing/streaking. Detention rooms on the third floor were graffiti free however, lower levels were rife with graffiti. Detention rooms on lower levels were untidy and many detention rooms were observed with makeshift partitions and window coverings. Another issue of concern was the slow response time to a special security concern. During monitoring, on unit 1F, a detainee alerted staff to a suicide attempt inside of his cell. A full 90 seconds elapsed before any officers entered the housing unit to intervene. There was no sense of urgency once responding officers finally entered the housing unit to render aid. The detainee's perceived status or prior history may have contributed to staffs slow response as comments were overheard by staff referring to the detainee as a "frequent flier" which was inappropriate and demonstrate a troubling disregard for the seriousness of the situation.

Division 11, constructed in 1995 houses male detainees of all security classifications. Division 11 includes housing for detainees involved in the highly sought after Recipe for Change and Second Chance Programs. The maximum capacity for Division 11 is 1532 across 32 tiers with 764 double detention rooms and four single detention rooms. Common areas were reasonably clean, orderly and visually free of vermin. Notice of rights posters were prominently or conspicuously displayed within some of the housing units toured during the compliance monitoring. The washrooms were not reasonably free of mold, mildew, soap scum and peeling paint. Most detention rooms (except for CC1) were disorganized and many were observed with makeshift partitions and with clothing draped through the window openings where glass would normally be.

Division 16 constructed in 1997, houses boot camp and the Tails of Redemption program detainees. The military barracks styled division has a capacity for 200 detainees across five tiers. The area was clean, orderly and visually free of vermin with Notice of Rights posters conspicuously displayed.

With all housing units in operation, CCJ can accommodate approximately 9075 detainees, at the time of monitoring, CCJ's capacity was 6640 detainees (559 female detainees/6081 male detainees).

CCJ was staffed with 1805 sworn personnel, 556 female, 1249 male who receive extensive in person training beyond security, emergency procedures, CPR, identification of signs and management of detainees with a mental illness or developmental disability. Their training also includes but is not limited to training for control devices and techniques and fire safety. Officers have access to nonlethal weapons including batons and tasers. CCJ does utilize restraint chairs, at least one is available in each division. Jail posts are provided upon hire and can be accessed by all employees via computer. The jail uses Lexipol software to publish and disseminate their facility policy which is frequently updated. Changes to any policy triggers an email to users which requires electronic acknowledgement of the policy change. There were also 256 non-sworn personnel staffed at the time of monitoring, 185 female and 71 male.

There are two initial points of entry for detainees at CCJ, the old receiving unit and the newer Receiving, Classification and Diagnostic Center. Detainees received from other agencies and those that have not been remanded or adjudicated are introduced into the jail from the old receiving area. Detainees that have been remanded are introduced into the jail via the newer receiving area. No matter the entry point, detainees are searched, identified and receive mental, medical and dental screenings. Personal property is properly searched, inventoried, stored and returned via an intricate conveyor system. All cash is deposited onto the detainees commissary account and valuables are vacuum sealed. Personal property left at the jail after a detainee is released is discarded or donated after 45 days or more. Detainees are provided with a jail uniform (jumpsuit), then escorted to their housing unit where they are provided with an admitting shower. Detainees classification status is reviewed at least every 60 days and after each court appearance. The jail has a dedicated team of 5-9 officers who are responsible for the classification process and review. Detainees who identify as transgender are housed according to their gender at birth unless another gender is verified by a physician. Transgender detainees are only housed with other transgender detainees or alone. Detainees are released from CCJ with appropriate medication and/or prescription along with community referrals for care.

CCJ contracts with Summit Food Service LLC to provide meals for detainees through July of 2025 (with two one-year renewal options). The kitchen operates from 600 hours to 2200 hours daily with approximately 100 employees and approximately 35 detainee kitchen workers. The facility has alternative menus available which include but are not limited to halal, kosher, soft, low cholesterol and renal for detainees with religious or dietary restrictions and does not serve pork or seafood. Per the Nutritional Compliance Statement provided by licensed dietician P. Bloch, dated 8/7/2025, the menus “meet the guidelines based upon the Recommended Dietary Allowances (RDA) and the Dietary Reference Intakes (DRI) recommended by the National Academy of Sciences, Institute of Medicine-Food and Nutrition Board...The menus appear to have a good balance and variety of foods offered. The regular diet cycle menu provides 2300-2500 calories per day.” CCJ was found to have two risk factor/intervention violations, one of which was corrected on site and no repeat risk factor/intervention violations per the Food Establishment Inspection Report conducted by the Cook County Department of Public Health in May of 2025. The kitchen was clean, orderly and visually free of live vermin at the time of monitoring and is serviced at least weekly by R&B pest control.

The massive commissary office is located in the rear section of the kitchen where detainees are prohibited. The commissary staff of approximately 40 employees provide commissary services to the facility weekly.

Shakedowns are conducted on every living unit every day of the week throughout the facility. CCJ conducted security checks 88.8% on time; a twenty-four-hour sample of each housing unit in operation in Division 6 between 9/12/2025 and 9/14/2025 was examined for this report. The on-time percentages for each unit were: 1L-100%; 1N-97.9%; 1H-97.9%; 2N-95.9%; 1D,1J-95.8%; 2R-94.3%; 2J-93.8%; 2H-93.7%; 2B,2C-91.6%; 1C-90.2%; 2D,2L-89.3%; 2K,2Q-87.7%; 1K-87.5%; 1R-86.1%; 2P-85.4%; 1B-80.8%; 2A-78.2%; 1A-75%; 1P-73.4% and 1Q-71.4%.

Keys are inventoried each shift, back up keys are securely located in every division. The CCJ facility has 18 generators, of which seventeen are diesel and one is gas. Generators are tested weekly on Thursdays or Fridays by Cook County Facilities Management personnel who also perform the monthly, quarterly, semiannual and annual maintenance. In collaboration with Cermak, the Department of Facilities Management and The Chicago Fire Department, fire safety inspections are conducted weekly on each shift throughout the facility, while fire safety drills are conducted quarterly throughout the complex. Fire pumps, fire alarms and fire extinguishers are tested monthly and annually by facilities management. CCJ appoints and trains sworn officers to carry out this task for each division for each shift who meet on a monthly basis to review fire safety issues.

CCJ also operates a massive laundry operation twenty-four hours each day. The facility is equipped with four huge washers, four huge dryers, one medium washer and one medium dryer. The jail also has an in-house tailor shop to modify and repair jail uniforms which includes instruction to detainees by a skilled seamstress.

CCJ contracts with RB Pest Solutions, who provide pest services once every week to the kitchen and commissary area, once every two weeks to ground floors, once a month to housing units and plumbing closets or as needed.

Detainees are allowed unlimited letters and some paperback publications. Mail is retrieved from the post office Monday through Friday, is screened by members of the Intelligence Unit and delivered to detainees; the reverse process is used for outgoing mail. Phones are available on each tier throughout the jail for outgoing calls only. Visits take place Monday through Friday from 1000 hours through 1800 hours and from 800 hours through 1800 hours on weekends in Division 10, detainees can also have virtual visits via available tablets. Great effort has been made at the jail to de-institutionalize visits with families by removing barriers and restraints during visits when possible.

CCJ offers a plethora of programs to enrich detainees in custody in partnership with over one hundred community partners, a full list of programs available to detainees can be found on the website of the Cook County Sheriff (<https://cookcountysheriffil.gov/departments/cook-county-department-of-corrections/programs-and-services/>).

Commissary services are provided by CBM Premier-Summit Food Service Joint Venture (CBM Premier Management) through July of 2025 (with two one-year renewal options). There was no commissary audit available for this report..

RECOMMENDATIONS

CCJ should ensure that Notice of Rights posters are conspicuously posted in all common areas of all housing units to provide maximum accessibility to detainees.

CCJ should consider showering detainees upon entry to the Receiving, Classification and Diagnostic Center, which proactively reduces the likelihood of the introduction of bodily pests, etc., into the facility as recommended by the American Corrections Association (ACA). Currently detainees enter the facility, change into a jail uniform without a shower and navigate through the intake process, which can take hours. After the intake process, detainees are assigned to a housing unit where they are provided with a shower. Per Illinois County Jail Standards Section 701.40 Admission Procedures Subsection M. Showers, "All detainees must shower or bathe when admitted."

CCJ should consider providing all detainees with upper and lower undergarments to maintain sanitation and uphold standards of modesty.

CCJ should consider installing barriers on windows of detention room doors throughout the facility for officer safety.
